Washington, D.C. 20505

22 March 1985

The President
The White House
Washington, D.C. 20500

Dear Mr. President:

Enclosed is a copy of my Annual Report to the Congress on the Intelligence Community for calendar year 1984. This is the eighth such report prepared for Congress as required by Senate Resolution 400 and House Resolution 658.

I wanted to convey two messages in this year's report

25X1
25X1

I believe that this report provides the Congress a more complete understanding and appreciation of the full range of challenges facing the Intelligence Community. Our success in meeting these challenges will be possible only with continued Congressional support.

Respectfully yours,

William J. Casey

Dear Mr. Chairman:

Enclosed is a copy of my 1984 Annual Report to the Congress. During these past four years, with the support of the Administration and the Congress, the Intelligence Community has realized significant, necessary growth. The result is a more robust intelligence system today than ever before in our history.

We face, however, a number of especially challenging problems. The

To meet these challenges and to provide the timely and accurate intelligence essential for devising and effectively executing a sound foreign policy requires sustained investments in the Intelligence Community. Our FY 1986 budget request that you are currently reviewing is an essential element in these investments. Your continued support is vitally important.

Sincerely,

William J. Casey
